EXHIBIT 12

would be reasonable to make an assumption for public interest purposes that restoration to baseline values will not be achieved for purposes of trying to weigh whether that would be offset by the positives associated with mining?

- A. I think what should be weighed is whether or not restoration was achieved in accordance with the applicable rules.
- Q. And you would not include that in any public interest consideration?
- A. Well, I would. I mean, as Dr. Darling said in his report, and with the possible exception of the O'Hern No. 3 that every single PAA they had to have an amended restoration. I would just emphasize that amended restoration tables are allowed, and there are very specific rules and requirements that need to be met before a restoration table amendment is granted.
- Q. And I have one other question along those lines and that is: If an amendment is granted, let's just say that the green area PA-1 was supposed to be restored to -- let's pick the baseline in the application, 0.115 milligrams per liter of uranium. And let's say a decision was made that an amendment -- well, an application for an amendment was made saying We can't get below 2 milligrams per liter of uranium.

1	The amendment is granted. Is there a monitoring
2	requirement that remains in place after the amendment
3	is granted?
4	A. No.
5	MR. BLACKBURN: Your Honor, is this a
6	good time to break for the day or would you like to
7	continue?
8	ADMINISTRATIVE JUDGE: How much more do
9	you have?
10	MR. BLACKBURN: I've got several hours.
11	ADMINISTRATIVE JUDGE: How much Cross?
12	Redirect?
13	MR. REDMOND: Our preference is to try
14	to finish it tonight if that's possible.
15	ADMINISTRATIVE JUDGE: How much time?
16	MR. REDMOND: We don't anticipate much
17	Direct. Our plans would be our preference would be
18	to try to finish tonight if possible.
19	ADMINISTRATIVE JUDGE: Okay, sir.
20	MR. ARTHUR: Your Honor, I've got, I'm
21	going to guess, about 15 minutes of Cross.
22	ADMINISTRATIVE JUDGE: Let's recess now
23	and reconvene at 9:00 in the morning.
24	MR. BLACKBURN: Thank you, Your Honor.
25	(Hearing recessed for the day.)
